I. GOVERNMENT MUST PROVE EVERY FACT STATED IN THE CHARGING INSTRUMENT

In United States v. Haldorson, 941 F3d 284, 297 (7th Cir. 2019) the Court held that the government must prove the facts as set forth in the charging instrument. In that case, the defendant was charged with unlawfully carrying an explosive, to wit, smokeless powder during the commission of a felony. The Court found that the government's case failed unless it proved the explosive was smokeless powder. The Court stated that the government could not satisfy its burden by proving the defendant carried any explosive. The Court noted that the statute charged a violation of 18 U.S.C. 844(h)(2) which does not require any specific type of explosive, but the Court held that the government narrowed the charge by including specific details beyond the elements of the statutory definition.
